If Benstein did not die of remorse of conscience, then there is no truth in the theory of retributive justice. From the brief of Benstein's counsel, on motion for a new of Benstein's counsel, on motion for a new trial before the supreme court, which brief we have in our possession, it is clear that the defense was purely technical, on law points, not as to the facts of the hideous crime which

THE Baltimore Sun, of the eighth, contains the following personal notice of Dr. J. S. Billings, vice-president, and one of the most prominent members of the National board of health: "Dr. Abram Dubois, of New York, gave not long since some eight of medicine toward the construction of a library building. With this sum for a nucleus the faculty of the college were able to secure enough money for the object in view, the building has been erected, and on Thursday last Library Hall was dedicated with appro-priate ceremonies. The opening address was made by Dr. Fordyce Barker, president of the academy, who, after showing the need for larger libraries than medical societies at present control, took occasion to pay a deserved compliment to Dr. J. S. Billings, well known in this city for his eminent learning, his great practical and technical skill in the sciences, and also in connection with the construction of the Johns Hopkins hospital buildings, a monument to the designer as much as to the beneficent founder. 'It is but a few years,' said Dr. Barker, 'since a young and unknown assistant surgeon in the army began to develop such ability and genius, such an instinct for seizing opportunities, such a capacity for creating circumstances, such a powe of compelling everybody to work for the ends which he sought to attain, and such a breadth of scope in his great schemes that there has resulted as the fruit of his work one of the most remarkable medical libraries now in existence. But he has not stopped with this work. His bibliographical labors have been immense and are of incalculable value to the medical scholarship of the whole country. In addition he has planned and supervised the construction of a hospital (the Johns Hopkins) which, when completed, in the opinion of those competent to judge, will surpass in excellence all others in the world as regards its fitness and adaptation to the purpose for which it is designed 'Dr. Barker further re-ferred to the services of Dr. Billings in connection with the National board of health, and concluded thus: 'I refer to what this gen-tleman has done not for the purpose of pay-ing a personal compliment, but to emphasize an illustration, and to enforce the moral that if the genius, ability and energy of one man can accomplish so much, stimulating, sway-ing and educating the whole medical mind of the country, what ought the combined talents, learning and labor of such an organization as the New York academy of medicine to accomplish in the future."

The False Notions Exist in the minds of many otherwise intelligen

OF BLACKBERRY ROOT. It is almost needless to say that this preparation, for an effectual and certain cure for Dysentery, Acute and Chronic Diarrhosa, Flux, and all kindred diseases, far excels an other known remedy. It not only cures the disease, but strengthens the intestinal organ and invigorates the entire system. We do not claim it to cure every thing, but we guar antee it to cure the diseases we name above. For children it has no equal, being both mile and safe in its effects; and for females it is the best strengthener and appetizer known Can be taken at all times with perfect safety. For sale by all druggists.
